Impact Plastics Returns to Huntley

Convenient tollway access, low costs result in new green jobs in Huntley.

HUNTLEY, IL — After a four year hiatus, Impact Plastics is returning to Huntley. Seeking additional space, the recycler of plastics and wholesaler of industrial refuse container replacement parts chose to return to Huntley to take advantage of improved tollway access, via the completely reconstructed and expanded full tollway interchange, and low costs of doing business in Huntley. Operations are scheduled to begin in Huntley by May 1, 2012, with all personnel completing their transition to the new facility in July, 2012.

President Scott Lemajeur stated, “We are extremely pleased to return to Huntley. The move allows us to not only grow, but do so more efficiently than we could have in other communities. The Mayor and staff were very helpful and efficient in assisting us through the entire process and took sincere interest in our company. For many reasons, bringing our business back to Huntley made sense.”

Impact Plastics, which employs 15 full-time and 5 part-time employees sees a bright future in Huntley. With additional space and lower occupancy costs, management foresees the addition of up to 15-20 additional employees in its recycling operations within the next two to three years. And should the firm’s successes continue, they hope to bring the plastic extrusion process in-house bringing up to 20 additional jobs to Huntley, jobs currently provided by firms located in Wisconsin.

“We believe that as firms understand the significant cost benefits of being located in Huntley along with our highly professional staff and village board that understands the elements of economic development in today’s market, businesses will seek to commit their important resources here. Huntley will benefit from increased employment opportunities, and more diverse tax base. We’re pleased to have Impact Plastics returning to Huntley.” stated Chuck Sass, Huntley’s Village President.
